Thank you. I will be back to work by late this afternoon/early this evening (as soon as I get home from the City). Other than a bruised eye and some stitches, I should be fine.

Thanks. I am fine. I have a basal cell carcinoma right below my eye. I have had it for awhile, but my doctor said I need to have it removed at this point. I wanted to get it done now so that it does not impact travel that I have to do in May to Texas and to Germany. I am having Mohs Surgery in the morning, which should take about three hours, and then I will be at the plastic surgeon for most of the afternoon. Should be a fun day!

No problem on talking on Friday or beyond. Hope you are OK....

And of course fine to work from home next week.

Can we discuss on Friday? I am going to the City for a minor, but all-day surgery. I may be able to discuss tomorrow late afternoon or early evening, but, I am not sure of when I will get home.

On the note of the surgery, I will have a fair number of stitches on my face, and have been told that for a week to ten days I will look like I had been in a fight and lost. Accordingly, if ok with you, I will likely work from home all of next week.

Frank,

Former New Mexico Governor Bill Richardson has agreed to join our third party organization, ACA, as its lead Democratic spokesperson and counterpart to Republican spokesperson Rosario Marin. Richardson has strong media relationships and is well known on the policy talk show circuit. As a prominent Hispanic leader and a former Energy Secretary under President Clinton, we believe he will add visibility and credibility to our cause. Although he has publicly supported the Senate comprehensive immigration bill (see http://www.lcsun-news.com/las_cruces-opinion/ci_24771993/gov-bill-richardson-and-eric-p-serna-can), that support is rooted in his belief in a pathway to citizenship for the undocumented and unrelated to the issues impacting us. (Rosario Marin is also a committed to finding a workable solution for the undocumented).

Over the last few months, we conducted extensive vetting of several candidates (memo attached), and we believe Richardson will bring the most value to our efforts. In a series of interviews with him in which we reviewed the restrictive provisions of S 744, Richardson has expressed his support for our position, which is consistent with his longstanding belief in the need for more high skilled workers in the US. Based on that, we do not believe that his support for a pathway to citizenship precludes his ability to be an effective spokesperson for us. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.
